(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The tropical hurricane which lashed and battered the eastern seaboard in one of the most devastating storms in history twisted out to sea today, leaving an estimated death toll of 175, scores missing, and untold millions of property damage in its swath.

Ruin and desolation
stretched from New Jersey, across Long Island Sound, up the coastline to Providence, R. I., and thence to inland New England. Fire added to the havoc caused by the whistling winds and driving rains.

Of the dead, less than 60 were identified. Only 23 of the 63 in Massachusetts were identified.
Rhode Island reported 35 known dead. Sixteen were estimated dead in New Hampshire. 22 were known dead in Connecticut, and 17 were known dead in New York.

Yesterday afternoon, the weather was quite cool, and "the boys" con-

Croton avenue, and were doing some "deer hunting". Some of the speak-

PA News is informed that the grading and seeding of lawns and berms along the recently widened Youngstown road is being done by the WPA and the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, sponsor of the project, instead of by the prop-

A local resident who has returned from a visit to friends in Ohio, tells PA News of having visited a big turkey and chicken farm. There were over five hundred turkeys on the farm and several thousand chickens. The husband and wife spent practically all their time in the coops, the wife wearing the same kind of attire as her husband.
She said that the turkeys would "know her in a dress, and would become frightened if they saw her wearing one." In this connection, she said that turkeys are very hard to raise on account of their nervous make-up. The turkeys alone had been fed over $1,000 worth of feed so far this year. It is planned to sell most of them at Thanksgiving. Despite the cost of food the couple have been making good money with their turkeys and chickens.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 22.—
Firemen began dynamiting buildings early today in the path of a con-

a toll estimated at $3,000,000.

Save for the flames, New London was in darkness throughout the night, and national guardsmen sent by Gov. Wilbur Cross patrol the streets with bayoneted rifles.

For hours the city was cut off even from telephone communica-

Three or four hundred refugees from the burning area crowded hospitals, a number of them with cuts or bruises from broken glass and falling bricks and spars.

There were whole families who fled with their children, picking up what household effects they could

At an early hour this morning of-

Margiotti's Testimony Brings Denials From Legislators Mentioned

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—Against the sworn testimony of former attorney general Charles J. Margiotti that Rep. Charles Melchiorre revealed to him an alleged $150,000
"sale" of beer and movie legislation during the 1935 legislature stood the denial today of the accused Philadelphia Democratic legislator.

Melchiorre, taking the witness stand at the house graft investigation, denied he ever told Margiotti of any sale of legislation, denied he had said he himself received $8,000, denied he said J. David Stern, Philadelphia newspaper publisher, received $100,000, and continued:
"They (Margiotti and his former chief deputy, Edward Friedman) told me, I never told them anything."

Margiotti, who was dismissed by Gov. George H. Earle during the Democratic primary campaign because he refused to back up his charges except to a grand jury, previously told the investigating committee that Melchiorre had revealed all this to him at two Philadelphia meetings and that Melchiorre had later dictated an unsigned statement concerning it. The statement was placed in the record.

To Melchiorre's denials of the truth of Margiotti's statements were added those of two others, Deputy Attorney General Michael Spatola, who Margiotti testified was present at one of his meetings with Melchiorre, and Senator Anthony Di Silvestro, D. Phila., who Margiotti testified told him that Matthew H.
McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor and Democratic leader, passed out $1,000 bills to "deserving" senators.
Margiotti quoted Di Silvestro as saying the bills were passed out during a picnic at the farm of Sen. Harry Shapiro.

Supports Melchiorre
Spatola's testimony supported Melchiorre. He said he was present at one of the meetings between Margiotti and Melchiorre and quoted Margiotti as having asked Melchiorre if the various "deals" mentioned had not transpired and of hearing Melchiorre reply: "I guess

Charges

SAYS GUFFEY TOLD
ABOUT "KICKBACKS"

Information Given In Conference At Erie April 29,
1938, He Testifies

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—Former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti today testified he had "specific and direct" testimony to back up his charges that high Democratic officials "extorted" campaign funds from public employees and "kick-backs" from architects.

Margiotti, again testifying before the House graft investigating committee, said his testimony on the kickbacks came directly from U. S.
Senator Joseph P. Guffey. Senator
Guffey gave him the information, he said, at the Lawrence hotel, Erie,
in the presence of others, on April 29, 1938. This was during the Democratic primary campaign when Senator Guffey was opposing the regular Democratic organization.

Specific Testimony
Concerning the "extortion" charges in District Attorney Carl B.
Shelley's amended petition to the supreme court, Margiotti said:

"I have specific testimony which I would regard as direct testimony which to my mind would sustain the charges." Shelley charged $2,000,000 was "extorted" annually by high Democratic officials from public employees for campaign purposes.
What this was or what Senator Guffey told him was not immediately brought out, but Margiotti said the senator as having told him:

"Charles, you are absolutely right about the charges you made about the architects—that's the kickbacks —but you made one mistake. It isn't one per cent, it's two per cent."

Margiotti said he asked Senator
Guffey: "How do you know?"
Guffey replied, Margiotti testified, "It was in a position to know."
Earlier, in previous hearings, Margiotti gave sensational testimony relating to an alleged $150,000 "sale" of beer and Sunday movie legislation.

Germans Take Over Sudeten Towns

Nazis Jubilant At Developments

The Swastika Burst Forth As If By Magic In Border Regions

CZECHS ARE SAD AT DAY'S EVENTS

(International News Service)
EGGER, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 22.—Czechoslovak troops and municipal authorities began voluntary and peaceful evacuation of the Sudetenland today, handing over the predominantly German sections to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

There was sadness among the Czechs but jubilation among the Nazis as troops all along the border fell back far behind Czechoslovakia's "Magnet line," sometimes withdrawing to points ten miles inside the frontier.

The swastika burst forth as if by magic everywhere. Before the eyes of the townspeople, Czechoslovak towns became German ones. Uniformed members of the Sudeten Free Corps, swastika arm bands on their sleeves, took over the posts vacated by Czechoslovak troops.

Seek To Avoid Trouble.
Acting under orders from Prague to avoid incidents at all costs, the Czechs gave way without the slightest sign of resistance. Soldiers rushed out to the terms of President Edvard Benes' martial law decree departed as swiftly as they had come.

Eger itself was taken over by a Sudeten committee headed by Dr. R. Egert, editor of the Eger Zeitung; Ernst Fuchs, Ernst Schopel and Dr. Franz Wolf. Administration was placed in their hands under an agreement reached with Czech civil and military authorities.

As the territory which Czechoslovakia had struggled so hard to hold against unremitting pressure from the western powers came under swastika rule, thousands of Sudeten Germans paraded the streets with flags and banners proclaiming their "liberation" from the "tyranny" of Prague.

land, but it has faced New England with the greatest crisis in its history.

According to best available reports, the fire started when the 75-mile gale hurled the Coast Guard Barkentine Marcelas, a training ship, ashore off Bank street.

The Barkentine's galley ignited a nearby wharf and the flames were roaring along a whole row of buildings before firemen, battling through flooded streets, could begin an effective attack.

In desperate straits, the firefighters asked Gen. William Ladd, commandant of the Connecticut National Guard, for permission to start dynamiting structures toward which the flames were eating.

"Unless this checked the whole city may be wiped out," fire department spokesmen told General Ladd. Early calls were sent to neighboring cities for apparatus, but debris-choked highways kept them from responding.

After the city's lighting facilities failed, the guardsmen were rushed in to aid police in safeguarding against looting and disorder.

Aside from the fire, the city was badly lacerated by the storm. Lashed at full force for nearly four hours, unroofing buildings, blowing in plate glass windows and destroying the ancient elm trees that beautify the town.

It will be good to see a 'coon once more, even if he has to be led around on a leash. New Castle people with relatives or friends in New England are much concerned over the flood and hurricane news appearing in the papers today.

Luminous paint is being applied to highway signs, probably as a reminder of the sulphurous atmosphere awaiting those motorists who do not pay any attention to signs. The general excuse of a motorist who runs past a sign is that he did not see it, which would seem to demonstrate the truth of that old gag, "some have eyes but they see not."

In this connection, the buttons placed near the top of Rural avenue are a traffic safety help.

Seems as though somebody is always wanting something. The city dads now want to dip their hands into the gasoline fund. Some people want a new court house and others want a new city building. Some want a new high school.

Some want a new Washington street resurfaced, and others would like to see the bumps taken off South Mill street. The young folks want more swimming pools and playgrounds and the old folks bigger pensions. It's the old game of summe, gimme, whose got the gimme. Everybody wants something but the taxpayers, and even he is wanting a rest.

Pa News has heard many words of commendation from taxpayers who read the exhaustive report of a special committee of the school board on a proposed addition to the high school. The committee presented facts and figures to show just how, and why they reached their conclusions that it would not be desirable to take advantage of the Thompson Act in the construction of an addition. The report entailed considerable work and was an example of efficiency. Members of the committee were Dr. W. Fulton Jackson, Clyde M. Whitaker and Robert L. Preston.

Last June, George H. Gray, of 1010 Adams street, planted gourd seed in his back yard. By now, the vines from the stalk have grown up over the chicken coop and hanging with gourds down the sides, and on the ground. There are about thirty gourds on the vines, one of which, about three feet and a half long, looks very much the shape of a baseball bat. Mr. Gray cut the largest gourd, and weighed it 16½ pounds. It weighed 16½ pounds and the length 3 feet and 11 inches. The gourd can be seen at The News office.

DEATH TOLL IN EASTERN STORM APPROACHES 200

Massachusetts has 27 deaths, Connecticut 21, Rhode Island 32, New Hampshire 4, and New York 17.

Disastrous Fires
New London, Conn., scene of disastrous fires that threatened for a time to wipe out most of the city, and Providence, R. I., were virtually cut off from the outside world.

Throughout most of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and parts of New Hampshire power lines were dead and communication systems badly crippled.

Highways and lowlands were inundated by swirling waters from flooded rivers and creeks, bridges and dams were washed out.

National guardsmen, state police and volunteer workers aided in hectic rescue feats and prevented looting of wrecked homes and stores.

Coast guard headquarters received reports that at least a hundred small craft are adrift on the seas between Northern Jersey and Woodshole, Mass. There was no way of telling how many persons might be aboard the craft.

Surpasses 1936 Floods
The hurricane which climaxed more than four days of continuous rainfall surpassed the 1936 floods which left disaster throughout New England.

Dispelling fears for safety of 29 passengers on a ferryboat plying between Bridgeport, Conn., and Fort Washington, L. I., the coast guard this morning reported the ferry, flying a distress signal, had been picked up by a cutter and was being towed to an unharmed port.

To a unique disaster at Westhampton, L. I., approximately a hundred cottages and all-year homes were leveled by a 90-mile-an-hour wind. Only six homes remained standing when police arrived. In the wreckage were found the bodies of four men and two women.

Throughout the night authorities turned to the radio to warn residents to remain indoors. Amateur radio operators carried appeals for aid.

Coast guardsmen were being mobilized along the New England coastline and Red Cross workers were dispatched to inland areas hardest hit.

Automobile travel in most sections of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island was impossible. Train service was a hit and miss affair.

"State Of Emergency"
At a special session of the executive council, Gov. Charles F. Hurley declared a "state of emergency" and $25,000 was made available for relief work. Governors of other stricken states are considering declaring similar emergencies.

Gov. Wilbur L. Cross already has national guardsmen mobilized in New London, New Haven, New Britain, West Haven and other Connecticut communities.

In Connecticut, Western Massachusetts and Rhode Island an estimated ten thousand persons were homeless, their dwellings either flooded, swept away by raging torrents when dams went out, or were flattened by the hurricane.

State militia were called out in 25 cities and towns in Massachusetts, including Worcester, New Bedford, Fall River, Springfield, Fitchburg, Lowell, Everett, Newton, Framingham, Taunton, Woburn, Attleboro, North Adams and Marlboro.

Railroad officials worked throughout the night striving to arrange for transportation of milk, food and fuel in addition to emergency supplies for stricken areas.

Huge Tide

The hurricane, which swept up across New England after lashing Long Island, was followed by a huge tide which washed hundreds of shore cottages into the sea and smashed countless small boats.

A 100-foot yacht was left high and dry on Fairhaven bridge at New Bedford and another 65-foot yacht was tossed up on a bridge at Warren, R. I.

Worcester also was hard hit by a series of fires, and the damage there was estimated at $1,000,000. Providence, R. I., was one of the hardest hit sections of New England.

Thirty-four were known dead and 16 persons were missing. In the capital city of Little Rock, more than a mile of the downtown district was under water.

At Jamestown, R. I., a school bus with seven children and the driver was engulfed in a tidal wave and all were drowned.

Five women watching a raging river at Weare, N. H., were drowned when the bridge on which they stood collapsed into swollen Piscataquog river.

Looting was reported in many sections.

Thousands Of Trees Down
New England suffered irreparable loss to its famed landscape. In greater Boston alone 15,000 shade trees were uprooted, particularly in Cambridge which had been standing since before the Revolution.

New Haven, Conn., too, lost many of the fine old elms which gave it its name of the Elm City.

Every radio station in Boston and others throughout Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, were silenced temporarily when the howling hurricane ripped down their broadcasting towers.

Boston had sufficient milk for today but paralyzed transportation raised the threat that the supply may be exhausted by tomorrow. The world famous Arnold Arboretum in Jamaica Plain in which were priceless collections of shrubs, trees, and vines transplanted from all sections of the world, was damaged beyond estimation.

Thirty-three persons were missing on Cape Cod alone and the section was isolated and communication difficult.

In Springfield, 2,500 residents on the south side were ordered evacuated from their homes as were 300 inmates from Hampden jail. The swollen Connecticut was expected to reach a crest at 22 feet this morning, three feet over flood stage.

In many localities flooded rivers began to recede as fair and cool weather followed in the wake of the hurricane.

GREAT BRITAIN and France have decided that no sacrifice is too great for the preservation of European peace. There fore Czechoslovakia is to be partitioned. Large areas are to be given to the Germans, and perhaps later to the Poles and the Hungarians. What is left is to be neutralized on the Belgian pattern under an Anglo-French guaranty, the value of which the Czechoslovaks will weigh, at the moment, with some skepticism. All of this is to be done to prevent the horror of another war.

It will be said that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier are sacrificing Czechoslovakia in their own interest, which is the interest of peace. But what is left of the prestige and the honor of France, pledged to defend the Czechs if attacked? These might well be cast aside if the cost of their preservation is to be millions of innocent lives. Whether the combined might of these two democracies would not have given Chancellor Hitler pause must now remain a mere speculation. London and Paris are unwilling to put that might to the hazard.

But what assurance is there that Hitler, having scored a new and devastating triumph for power politics, will not now press onward in his Eastern march and hereafter find some pretext for the seizure of the rich wheat fields of the Ukraine? He has been logical in his fashion and of that logic there is no end in sight. So there can come a time when Great Britain and France will have to stand and fight as the German Reich marches on, even if that time is not now.

The difficulties of the democracies are terrible, indeed, in dealing with such a person as Hitler. Yet it is hard to believe that Mr. Chamberlain's "new realism" means dismemberment of Czechoslovakia as an isolated phenomenon. Has Hitler offered no compensation, no suggestion of a general European appeasement—in Spain, for example? The world cannot believe that the carving up of Bohemia, no matter what the interest of her minorities, no matter how valid the right of self-determination, no matter how artificial her frontier from an ethnological standpoint, is of itself the price of European peace. If peace is to rest, on such a negative foundation, will it not prove to be a peace that is no peace at all?

A WARNING AGAINST REGIMENTATION

Private enterprise must fail if its initiative is destroyed, and the great enemy of initiative is government regimentation. That is the lesson brought before the International Management Congress by the chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, A. W. Robertson. It is one worth pondering.

New Deal regimentation of industry, grounded as it is on political aggrandizement and limping economics, is a constant threat to private initiative. In urging business management to stand fast against that threat Mr. Robertson is giving practical counsel.

"It is pleasant to be complacent," he warns, "but other civilizations as proud as our own have gone down leaving only broken fragments to tell the story of their glory. Through wise management of our abilities and resources we have advanced far beyond any previous frontier, but what we have gained can be lost. And it will be lost, and retreat will be inevitable, if the attack against business succeeds in curtailing management and killing initiative."

That is commonsense doctrine expressed in a stirring way. It should serve to awaken some of those who sight the danger facing them, but who prefer to disregard it, vaguely hoping for the best. Complacency never kept an advancing enemy out of a trench. Private enterprise must stand by its colors, as Mr. Robertson advises, if it is not to be beaten down by government regimentation.

AN AMERICAN HERO

Walter Reed's work saved more lives than were lost in all of Napoleon's campaigns—yet his birthday passed this month with scant mention.

In the middle of the last century Walter Reed and his two brothers were students at the University of Virginia, all planning to study medicine.

But the family purse couldn't stand the strain, so Walter, 16, extracted a promise from the medical school faculty that he would be given a medical degree if he could pass the necessary examinations without the expensive preliminary course.

They assented readily because they believed he would fail. Young Reed surprised them. He got his degree at 17 and was third in his class.

Dr. Reed eventually joined the Army medical corps. He gained such renown that when President McKinley appointed a commission to combat yellow fever that took so many American lives in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, Dr. Reed was named to head the commission.

Dr. Reed's battle against the dread disease took rare moral courage. He had to experiment on human beings, for man was the only animal susceptible to it.

Only twice before had this been done by microbe hunters—by Jenner in his fight against cow-pox in 1798 and by Pasteur in his anti-rabies inoculation in 1885.

He discovered that the mosquito is the intermediate host for the parasite.

This enabled Americans to complete the Panama Canal, a feat that is more a sanitary than an engineering triumph.

When he was satisfied as to the merits of his work, Dr. Reed wrote his wife:

"The prayer that has been mine for twenty years, that I might be permitted in some way or at some time to do something to alleviate human suffering, has been granted."

These words are proof that the really great are humble.

Happiness isn't measured in hours. One couple may have more happiness in a year than others find in a lifetime.

Funny man! Wasting five years of his life in prison seems a dreadful punishment, yet he gives five or ten years of it for a little self-indulgence.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACHERS LEARN TO UNDERSTAND CHILDREN

We can learn to understand children; some of us do. Let us see.

As one attends family picnics, enters homes where there are growing children, and observes children with their parents elsewhere, one is impressed with the considerable way in which lots and runabouts generally are treated.

So also as one visits the modern school, one must admire the patient, sympathetic, understanding attitude of the teacher toward the child. In spite of all the lingering barbarities one still has to see and hear about, wide respect for the personality of the child by his elders does prevail. Increasingly children, rather than subjects, are being taught at school, and the best teachers are trying to learn children.

That was not bad grammar I just used; it was chosen advisedly. Let me repeat: The best teachers are trying to learn children; they are trying to learn children as children try to learn their own lessons. For these teachers the child is the open book to be studied. Yes, the best teachers study children and learn them; so do the best parents. Children learn lessons; teachers learn children—children also learn teachers.

When I was a boy on the farm attending the "district school," I used to hear people talk about the teacher "learning" the child. When I discovered in my grammar book it was wrong to say, "The teacher learns the child," I felt quite superior. I remember that one time I uttered proudly with a school-mate, as we together heard a neighbor utter "learn" in this setting.

Manners Also Incorrect

That neighbor's grammar was incorrect, of course; so were my manners—which was of more importance. He meant that the teacher taught the child. It is possible, however, that he meant just what I meant when I referred to the teacher's learning the child.

Anyway, a most important thing today for a teacher and parent is to learn the child. Then neither of us would make so many grave mistakes in dealing with him, and he would be more ready to cooperate with us. Besides, he would be able to learn his lessons so much better.

I wish more teachers of the teenage boy and girl would learn their students better. Then ridicule and sarcasm—twin curses to modern youth—would eventually disappear from the classroom.

Until then high school students might cure the teacher of using ridicule and sarcasm. If these students would quit rewarding the teacher for their use. It would be easy. The students would just refuse to laugh when a comrade was a victim of these weapons of barbarity. Let the adolescent students band together in a covenant to denounce the teacher who uses ridicule and sarcasm.

How long do you suppose a teacher would continue to indulge in wisecracks which inflict wounds that never heal if no students laughed when he did?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IT CAN NOT BE DONE

Whenever governments attempt to regulate the personal habits of citizens by passing laws and ordinances forbidding the citizen to manufacture or sell alcoholic beverages or to operate any place of business where wagers are made upon horse races, or cards or dice, the doors are wide open for graft. No law or ordinance can successfully regulate human habits of this kind.

I never was so impressed with this fact than in my recent trip through the State of Nevada. The State of Nevada has repealed all acts relative to gambling and the citizens of Nevada are gambling to their hearts' content. The citizens of Nevada can operate places for gambling. They can have there all the machines, slot machines, roulette tables, faro, poker and other gambling games; any kind of a gambling device that they see fit to put into their places of business, at a license fee of so much for every machine.

Upon entering Nevada, I walked into a drug store in a little town. There were two slot machines in the aisle of the drug store. For a moment I did not understand why they were in plain view and then I suddenly remembered that gambling was legal in Nevada and I said to the druggist: "Do many people operate these machines?"

The druggist said, "No, it is perfectly legal for them to do it, and they are not interested, particularly. The machines are set so that the player has a reasonable chance of winning."

Reader's Question Answered

Dear Miss Markel—Please tell me how to stain a new pine floor. I shall have venetian blinds in my living room over which I shall have draperies but no glass curtains. Should the draperies be full length or short?

Answer—An inexpensive and effective method of treating a new pine floor is giving it a thin coat of varnish and then polishing it several times with wax. Of course, your floor must be smooth and clean before varnishing. Light tan is the most practical color.

If your ceilings are low and you wish to give height to your room, full-length draperies will help to give this effect. If your ceilings are sufficiently high you may, if you prefer, have your draperies come just about a foot below your window trim.

Tydings Has No Ambitions
Is Not Seeking Presidency
Lacks Mass Appeal Is Claim

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—

Having been so conspicuously successful in defying President Roosevelt's attempted purge, Senator Millard E. Tydings is beginning to be touted as a 1940 presidential possibility. This talk is hokey. Millard will not be a presidential factor in the Democratic or any other party convention in 1940 or 1944 or 1948 or ever.

Already renominated, he will be reelected to the senate in November. He will continue to be quite prominent among his fellow senators. Doubtless, he also will continue to be, anyway for the coming two years, a serious New Deal nuisance. But he won't be picked even to run for the White House, let alone getting into it.

Tydings is smart, interesting and personally very likeable to folk he comes in close contact with—pretty "Tony" folk generally. He hasn't mass appeal, however. Practical politicians know it. They make occasional mistakes, as in the case of Winfield Scott Hancock, whom the Democrats chose presidentially in 1880, as in the case of John W. Davis in 1924, and maybe in the case of Alf Landon in 1936. All these were estimable individuals, but politicians ought to have realized that they were presidential unfortunates, and they WOULD have realized it but that they weren't well enough acquainted in advance with Hancock, Davis or Landon. They do realize in advance that Millard hasn't it in him to catch the multitude's imagination. They realize it because the Marylander's record in the senate has informed them.

"OVER-ARISTOCRATIC"

I don't say that he is too conservative; my observation is that quite a few so-called conservatives are, especially, middling good liberals. But Tydings, at least superficially, is a bit over-aristocratic. He looks it and he acts it. He'd rub any "typical prairie state" the wrong way inevitably.

Oh, yes, he beat the purge, but that was in Maryland—which is local.

For that matter, he might not have done so well in Maryland if President Roosevelt had kept out of the campaign. Early in the campaign the betting was about 49 to 51 that David J. Lewis would capture the Free State Democratic senatorial nomination—which is catamount "tantamount," as commentators somewhat tiresomely express it; "equivalent" would be a better word to election. "Davey" Lewis thought so himself, and more than invited the White House not to bother him. His invitation wasn't accepted, and we know what the result was.

Incidentally, of course, Tydings had the Maryland Democratic state machine support, which is that: Millard means to say it that: Millard (Continued On Page Seven)

In spite of all the strife and care And all the sorrows bound to be; In spite of all the griefs we bear Life still holds countless charms for me.

And on my birthday I am glad And grateful for the years I've had.

Against the burning touch of pain; The shattered hope time never mends.

Like sunshine following after rain There gleams the loyalty of friends.

And every birthday seems to me Richer and happier to be.

Not all is as I wish it were. Some things I'd alter if I could. I know injustices occur from good. And much in life is bound to work.

But happily I tread the earth Glad for the privilege of birth.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

The Second Failure

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.

THE tremendous tension caused by European affairs, coupled with the domestic heat engendered by the unsuccessful efforts of the President to drive out of public life party candidates who, in his judgment, "lack the liberal point of view," not unnaturally have obscured a phase of the New Deal Administration as significant as it is important—to wit, the flat failure of the new farm program.

ACTUALLY, the inexorable laws of supply and demand have as completely collapsed the latest effort to regiment, regulate and control agriculture as the Supreme Court, interpreting the laws of the land, collapsed the first effort when, two years ago, it invalidated the AAA. This second great failure is not a thing to which Administration spokesmen call attention. Nor is it one they will admit publicly. So far as they can it will be covered up under the propaganda cloak for some vague, new program leaving additional taxes, providing for increased subsidies and even greater control, to be submitted to Congress at the coming session.

THE SIMPLE FACT is that the plan has not worked. With all the power that seemed possible, with everything that could be thought of in an act so comprehensive and complicated that almost anything could be done under it and no man could, or at any rate did, intelligently explain it—with all that, plus four years' experience in regulatory efforts, the scheme cannot be made to operate effectively. That has now become completely clear and it certainly is no surprise to those who at the time of its passage made an effort to understand what it was all about.

AS YET the public generally is not aware of the failure because its attention has been diverted by other more colorful matters. But the Department of Agriculture, headed by Mr. Henry Wallace, is aware of it and it may be said is silently suffering no little pain as a result of the knowledge. It is not too much to say that they are in rather a desperate frame of mind on the subject, one evidence of which is the almost feverish attempt of Mr. Wallace to buy up surplus crops and distribute food to families who already are being taken care of by the relief organization. Other evidence is in the character of the various unsentimental announcements emanating from the department in the last few weeks. As they usually regard prices for farm products the thinking farmers of the country feel that the plan has flopped and there is beginning to be considerable resentment more or less openly manifested.

OF COURSE, Mr. Roosevelt knows the facts. Not long ago Mr. Wallace had a long private talk with those close to him in the White House. Mr. Wallace is far too conscientious and honest a man to have concealed the true facts from his Chief and he is much too clear-headed not to be greatly worried by the state of affairs. As a matter of fact, the figures themselves tell the story of the failure. The prices of farm products generally are today lower than they were before the act went into effect—wheat, corn and cotton are all down. As Mr. Mark Sullivan points out, the index price for all grain crops today is what it was in October, 1933, when Mr. Roosevelt first proclaimed his purpose to raise farm prices by legislation, the index figure was 78.

IN THE FACE of this, it is not easy to see how the statement that the farm program has failed can be contradicted. The first failure, of course, was laid to the Supreme Court; for the second failure there seems no alibi at all. To the ordinary man this would now seem the time for Mr. Roosevelt to acknowledge error and retreat from a course clearly proven futile. But this is the one thing that will not be done. The only other alternative is to push blindly along in the same direction, to keep up the pretense that, given time, the plan is bound to work; that which is needed is "additional legislation" and more money; to reaffirm the 1933 promises to the farmer that "if we cannot raise prices one way we will another. Do it we will."

SO AT THE next session there will be another farm program. No one knows what it will be, but then no one knew very much about the present one until it made its bewildering appearance. In their hearts, the more intelligent of the economic planners in Washington know now there is no legislative remedy for the situation, but that will not prevent them from cooking up another program which is sure to be more expensive, more complicated and more authoritarian. Once started in that direction, the only alternative to a confession of failure is to go on, out the high-minded moral of the administrators—like Mr. Wallace—must be desperately unhappy.

Nearly 3,000 Fingerprints From New Castle On File In Department Of Justice

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—One out of every eighteen persons in New Castle has fingerprints on file in the Department of Justice. The number of New Castle fingerprints accepted for classification in the criminal and civil identification files of J. Edgar Hoover's bureau totaled 2,759 on July 1 of this year. The 1930 census gave New Castle's population as 48,074.

Since 1924, when the Department of Justice began keeping records of fingerprints, New Castle has furnished an average of 183 sets of prints a year, each set from a different individual. In the fiscal year of 1938, 413 sets were furnished.

This situation is not alarming, Hoover said, for many of the owners of those prints are not now residents of New Castle, and many of the prints were furnished voluntarily by persons for the department's civil identification files. It would be impossible to tell, without detailed checking, how many owners of the New Castle prints on file here are still New Castle residents.

Prints sent to Washington by local police, the county sheriff, or Federal agents, do not brand a person always as a criminal. Many local police take prints of persons who commit misdemeanors only.

There are now 830,000 fingerprints in the civil identification files of the department. These prints were invaluable in helping to identify many of the 225,000 persons found missing during the year ended July 1, Mr. Hoover said.

About one out of every fifteen persons in the country can be identified in Washington by means of prints, Hoover added.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The beavers solve their home defense problems simply and neatly. They merely arrange an under-water entrance to their house, better than any moat. Humans, menaced by their own rather than another species, find no such easy solution. It begins to appear that the genus Homo can survive only in a world matrix of steel and concrete.

Quietly, swiftly, the French man the vast underground labyrinth of the Maginot Line, closing the long gap between Switzerland and Belgium; they ready it to the last sensitive push-button. A vast tide of human energy, back through the centuries, has been diverted to forts, but never has humankind been driven so far underground; never has it been lashed to such a desperate mobilization of technical brains and training for the sole purpose of national and individual survival.

And that is the story of most of Europe. Little nations which long ago renounced war and became prosperous in peaceful pursuits—the Scandinavian countries, Switzerland, The Netherlands and Belgium—are now delving and building as frantically as Germany and France. "They shall not pass!" is our last cry against encroaching doom.

Three years ago it frequently was

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or aching passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorder, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, resting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney cases that are responsible for your backache. Get Doan's Pills.

Fort and cathedrals fittingly have symbolized mankind's two major historic concerns—first to survive, second to aspire. We, in America, like the people of all other nations, have invested our historic forts with glamor and patriotic sentiment. Much of our history could be written around them. Six of them have been set aside as public monuments. They are Fort McHenry, Baltimore, where the Star Spangled Banner still waved at dawn; Fort Pulaski, Savannah, Ga.; Fort Marion and Matanzas, at St. Augustine, Fla.; Castle Pinckney, near Charleston, S. C.; and Fort Wood on Bedloe's Island.

Maine has taken over from the Federal government eight of its old forts, including Fort St. George, built in 1809, at the mouth of the St. George's river; Fort Popham, on the Kennebec and Fort Baldwin, Fort Jefferson, Fla., the "Gibraltar of America," also has been made a national monument. One of the oldest is Fort de Chartres, built in 1720 at Prairie du Rocher, Ill., by the French, against the Spanish and English.

There is the old Fort Niagara at Niagara Falls, Fort Mifflin, 102 years old, in Carteret county, S. C., and Fort Brown, in Texas. Someday somebody will write a fascinating book about these old American forts—as vulnerable as match boxes against the weapons of today, but so sure in their tradition of deeds well done.

The Eskimos put heaven away down in the nice, safe, warm earth and hunk up in the skins, whence come the freezing winds and ice and snow. We may do likewise, unless we manage to kick up such a general all-around hell that there is no place for a heaven, not even in our dreams. Our cathedrals have gone underground on occasion, in the ages of the great cataclysms. Will it happen again?

There are those who say that we built forts and cathedrals in the wrong order; that we should have built the cathedrals first and, thus aspiring, would not have needed the forts.

A Better Way to Treat Constipation!

When you're constipated, it's a great temptation to be satisfied with quick relief. But medicines may become a habit. And they don't keep constipation from returning. It's so much better to get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do, chances are the only thing that matters is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat Kellogg's All-Brain for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. This crunchy cereal contains both "bulk" and the intestinal tonic, vitamin B. And it's not a drug, not a medicine! All-Brain is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Mich., by grocers. Served by restaurants.

Movie Star Tells Of Coming Penn Picture

By SPENCER TRACY
(Special To The News)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—At a time when we are all so greatly in need of inspiration and faith in the future, I have had an unforgettable experience. It was my good fortune to spend several weeks at Boys Town, Neb., with Father Edward J. Flanagan. I came away feeling that the world cannot be such a bad place in which to live when there is such a place and such a man.

There are 200 boys at Boys Town. Some were incorrigibles and criminals before they came to Father Flanagan. Others were neglected and abandoned. Every boy had a story more dramatic than any fiction. One was the youngest bank robber on record, another killed his father during a family quarrel. But to meet these boys and talk to them is a revelation of what can be accomplished by patience, kindness and constructive thinking. Father Flanagan's record speaks for itself. Of the 4,366 boys who have graduated from Boys Town in the past 21 years, there has not been a single case of a boy becoming involved with law enforcement agencies.

It has been my privilege to play Father Flanagan on the screen. He is one of the greatest humanitarians of our day, a man who has based his life work on the firm conviction that "there is no bad boy."

It is surprising that his richly human story has not been brought to the screen before this. He started with ninety borrowed dollars and five boys, two newboys and three juvenile delinquents, his first home a modest house in Omaha. A few years later he created Boys Town, now an incorporated village, on a farm 10 miles west of Omaha on the Lincoln highway. No boy in need has been turned away, and boys have come to him by the hundreds from almost every state in the Union. The fact that he accepts boys of every race, creed and nationality is a lesson in tolerance and understanding.

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer suggested that I play Father Flanagan, I was against it. It seemed too big a job, playing a living man in a motion picture. I am happy that I did, because the screen needs stories and pictures like Boys Town, which not only have all the elements of entertainment, but carry a message of good will as well. When Hollywood can make a picture like "Boys Town," it is progressing in the right direction.

Mrs. Tracy joins me in sending best wishes to all of our friends in New Castle.

Sincerely,
SPENCER TRACY.

Seek Source Of Typhoid Epidemic

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The source of a form of typhoid fever that has caused one fatality and afflicted at least 143 other persons in Chicago and its western suburbs was sought by health authorities today.

Bacteriologists determined the cause of the mysterious epidemic yesterday after examining the stomach contents of several of the persons stricken.

It was believed that a number had eaten contaminated pastry but reports of the ailment were so widespread that it was considered unlikely that all the cases could be traced to a common one.

New Castleites In California Gather

Word comes from California, of a recent gathering held by former residents of this city, who now reside on the sunny west coast of the continent, and who hold membership in the Ramblers Club. It was the last of the outdoor picnics of the season.

Announcement of the event was unique, a cartoon, picturing a picnic basket on wheels, loaded down with the family, and good things, leaving New Castle, Pa., and headed for Alhambra City, Calif., where the gathering took place on Sunday, September 11. The idea was that of Ed. Farrell, and the idea seemed to take hold as there was a record crowd present. Ideal weather prevailed adding to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mr. Farrell, president of the Ramblers Club, acted as master of ceremonies, and had arranged a program of sports and fun, which entertained both old and young. There were prizes for all the winners, and candy for all who attended.

There was even a bride and groom present, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Charles Wilson, Jr., who were presented with a lovely vase by the Ramblers.

Some of the regulars were unable to be present for the occasion because of illness, but there were many present who had never been to one of the Ramblers gatherings before and who met old friends and re-lived the days they had spent in New Castle.

An invitation was extended to all former New Castleites, to attend the gatherings of the Ramblers Club whenever they are in California.

Those who registered, which did not include quite all present, were as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Wm. D. Walker, Mrs. Elmer Ronnigh, Mrs. Harold Patterson, Mrs. Walter Lasher, Mrs. Hazel Vogt, Mrs. Edna H. Lasher, Mrs. Harriet Wartenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mort, Mrs. Ada Brown, C. N. Barnett and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Baylham, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Blaine, Leo P. Driscoll, Mrs. T. E. Dunne (nee Nell Driscoll), Edward B. Farrell, William H. Farrell, Jr., John Gross, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Haydon, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hinkson, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman D. Hurst, Alice Ferrell Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kunkel, Frank Kunkel, Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, George (Abe) McFarland, Mrs. Julia Miller, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sant, Nevin Seiger, Mrs. T. A. Spencer, Mrs. M. Thurmond and son, Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Earle S. Waddington and family, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Williamson, Sr. and Mrs. Frank C. Wilson, Jr., Tommy Wilson, Miss Eda Pechstein, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rodgers, Ed. Speer.

lard's Maryland victory doesn't mark him as a Democratic presidential possibility in 1940. As a New Deal candidate his chance is approximately as good as ex-President Hoover's. Or as an anti-New Deal Democrat? Nope! The Democratic anti-New Dealers at least will try to hold Democracy together, avoiding the choice of an irreconcilable.

It is likely that the Republicans will nominate Tydings! (Exclamation mark; not an interrogation point.) Or supposing a multiplicity of parties? Well, I wouldn't surmise that Millard E. Tydings would be nominated even by the American Liberty League—or by the communists or anybody.

In short, I don't think he'll be nominated—in 1940 or later.

"PURGE" BACKFIRES

The Roosevelt purge got the maximum worse of it in Georgia. It rather expected the victory of the anti-New Deal standard bearer, Walter P. George, for senatorial re-nomination. But certainly it didn't anticipate that another anti-New Dealer (Eugene Talmadge) would outclass pro-New Deal candidate Lawrence Camp for the senate. It thought it would be at least in second place.

Yet, all the time that every indication is that the New Deal is outvoted, the New Deal chief booster (President Roosevelt) seems to have a majority. He loses locally but he appears to be a national favorite. Queerly enough, the country apparently is anti-New Deal. Anyway, anti-New Deal candidates win the primaries. Yet we apparently are New Dealers generally.

winning and yet they don't play them very much.

"Well," I said, "how is it in the regular gambling establishments?" He said, "I think they are not getting rich. This is still Nevada and while the law might be slow to punish one who cheated in his gambling, the other gamblers still take care of that situation in the old-fashioned way."

Mayor LaGuardia and District Attorney Dewey of New York, are bent on destroying the gamblers and the political grafters operating because of the anti-gambling laws, and so serious is the condition that the Judge hearing the present case of Hines, Ferdinand Pecora, being a Tammany man, is in a particularly hot spot. Judge Pecora has himself acted as more or less of a prosecutor in the well remembered investigations of Mr. Morgan and others in Washington, but Mr. Pecora is a good Tammany man and so has been Mr. Hines and because of this, the case is particularly interesting.

The human should be permitted to bet his head off if he wants to. If he wants to lose all of this money, let him lose it, but the probabilities are such that if there were no anti-gambling laws, there would be a great deal less gambling—just as the druggist has found in the State of Nevada.

Negro Testifies In Cadiz Trial

Try To Break Down Story That Bernard Masulla Killed Ohio Patrolman

(International News Service) CADIZ, O., Sept. 22.—Defense attorneys hammered away at Charles Ford, 30-year-old Pittsburgh Negro, today in an effort to break down his testimony that Bernard Masulla was the trigger man in the slaying of Highway Patrolman George Conn and that Peter Serino also fired at the officer.

Ford, one of the state's star witnesses in the trial of Serino for the killing of Conn, identified a drapery which covered the slain officer's body as one obtained in Huntington, W. Va., and told a jury of ten men and two women that he was present when Conn fell in a hail of bullets.

Serino is the first of four men indicted for the killing to go on trial. Ford, Masulla and Booker Johnson, another Negro, also are under indictment in the case.

Can't Remember

Ford declared that Serino fired at the officer and added "I don't know if he hit him."

The Negro held doggedly to his story as Defense Attorney J. I. Simon struck at what he said were discrepancies in Ford's story as told at the time of his arrest and at the trial.

"I'm telling the truth now," Ford protested as Simon accused him of lying.

The name of John Gleaton, held here as a material witness, was brought into the testimony as Simon attempted to show that he and Ford are close friends. Gleaton, a Negro, is the man who first got the story of the slaying from Johnson and later from Ford.

No further reference was made to the identity of a young woman Ford said was kidnapped by the gang in Delaware and taken to a "house" in Steubenville.

THE TOWNSMEN ELECT McFATE NEW PRESIDENT

Attorney Honored As Members Ballot Last Night; Others Named

Attorney Joseph R. McFate was chosen president of The Townsman, young men's club, when members of the organization elected officers for 1938-39 at a meeting in the T. M. C. A. last night. He will succeed Lauri G. Laurel, who retires from the leadership post, September 28.

S. Glenn McCracken was named vice president in the balloting, Earle M. Brookover was named secretary. Don Thompson was re-elected treasurer and Frank Clary was re-named recording treasurer. Alfred H. Owens and J. Robert Winter were chosen directors. Laurel automatically becomes a director.

The newly elected officers will be installed at a banquet in New Wilmington Wednesday evening, September 28.

The Townsman organized here 10 years ago as the New Castle chapter of the Phalanx fraternity and later adopted its present name. Service work among boys has been its major activity, but for years it has been active in all community affairs. The group sponsors New Castle's annual community fathers-sons banquets.

Fish In Pymatuning; Groundhogs; And Deer Season Is Discussed

(Written for International News Service by James W. Stuber, Secretary of the Outdoor Writers' Association of America.)

To see it, you would have to believe it, for there it is. It's at Linesville, Pa., at the Pymatuning Dam. Hundreds of fish, swimming over each other, climbing out of the water over each other's backs, big ones leaping over the pyramids of struggling fish, more fish than water, and wild ducks sliding and walking over this moving pyramid of churning, fighting, slithering fish. People on the bank throwing stale bread to the fish. Fish and ducks fighting for the bread. A bread wagon with stale bread at two cents a loaf. Hundreds of cars parked along the road. Motor cars there to keep traffic moving. Yes, they were carp. The ducks were mallards. When I was first told about it by a member of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, I said: "Oh, yeah? Now I'll tell you."

I stopped at Linesville and made inquiry. Linesville is just east of Andover, O., close to the Ohio-Pennsylvania line. Pymatuning Lake is located in Pennsylvania and Ohio. It is worth anyone's while to go over to Linesville to see this almost unbelievable sight. You can see it any day.

Pymatuning Lake is rapidly becoming a great hunting and fishing territory. The Ohio and Pennsylvania game departments cooperate in the game management and fish program. Wild ducks come in large numbers.

Old Grumpy Groundhog. Groundhogs play an important part in the game management program. This was pointed out by game management agents of the Pennsylvania Game Commission as well as by agents of the Ohio Division of Conservation at a meeting of Western Pennsylvania sportsmen at Conneaut Lake a few days ago. The groundhog makes dens. He's a digger.

He doesn't use every den that he digs. If the den fills with too much water or is not satisfactory, he digs another one. Sometimes he digs five or six before he finally gets one that suits him. These unused dens are retreats for cotton-tail rabbits as well as pheasants during bad weather and during the winter. With no place to go, the rabbit may sit outside in a snow or sleet storm and freeze to death. If a groundhog hole is handy, he has shelter and lives through. As many as five or six pheasants have been reported in one groundhog hole during bad weather, or when heavy hunting has driven them to cover. Needless killing of groundhogs is not good sportsmanship and not good for the "more game" program, Pennsylvania authorities say.

Old Grumpy Groundhog, in making a winter shelter for Peter Rabbit or Molly Cottontail, who can't dig, is really doing something for the rabbit hunter.

Too Many Deer. Pennsylvania this year will have a doe season. No buck deer can be killed legally.

Pennsylvania can kill 125,000 doe deer and not miss them, according to Seth Gordon, executive secretary of the Keystone State Game Commission. This will give bucks a chance to grow larger antlers. There will be better bucks in the woods when the law on buck deer opens again. These old does are not producers. Many do not have fawns. They never mate. There are too many does for the bucks. In some counties there are 40 does to one buck. That isn't good for either buck or doe, or for a game management program. Any farmer knows enough to balance his herd. If he has too many cows—unproductive cows—he gets rid of them. That is what Pennsylvania is going to do, regardless of all the yelping from the sentimental and ill-informed.

Hundreds of deer—perhaps thousands—are dying in Pennsylvania every winter of starvation. They are found with sticks and leaves in their stomachs. The green food, moss and other natural food is gone. Too many deer have destroyed the winter food. It's better to kill some of the does with a gun and use the meat than to have them starve this winter and the meat go to the foxes and bobcats.

I personally saw the remains of starved deer in the Pennsylvania forests last spring. I saw thousands of acres of forests with all the browse and food eaten as high as a deer could reach. It looked as if it had been gone over with a hand cutter. The saplings were trimmed from the ground up. You could see through the trees for hundreds of yards. A few years ago, in the same forests, you couldn't see a hundred feet. Pennsylvania is going to solve this problem with a management program for the deer herd. Pennsylvania now has more deer than at any time within the memory of any living man—probably more deer than at any time in the history of the world. In 1900 deer were practically gone from the state; wiped out by poaching, commercialization of game and lack of game laws. At any rate, today there are more whitetail deer per square mile in Pennsylvania than any other place on earth.

Turn Down Plan For $370,000 School

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 22.—By unanimous vote, the school board of Butler township decided at a meeting late yesterday afternoon that no further steps would be taken to build a $375,000 high school building.

The board explained that "unsatisfactory experience in vocational education in neighboring localities, particularly in New Castle, where the trade schools have been abandoned, and the discovery that vocational education was not selected to the extent anticipated in those places where it has been offered, were also factors in making the decision."

ALLEY RATS HAVE ANNUAL REUNION

Nearly Seventy Attend 23rd Annual Event At Muddy Creek Falls

Sixty-six kids who used to play around together 30 years ago got together again Wednesday afternoon and evening when the Alley Rats held their 23rd annual reunion at Muddy Creek Falls. The total membership of the Rats is 100 but many of them are scattered far from New Castle.

Early in the afternoon the gang began gathering at the football camp on Muddy creek. Some horse-shoes were pitched, a ball game or two was under way but for the most part the Rats sat around telling each other of the days long gone by.

About 6:30 dinner was served, with President F. B. Harlan at the head of the table. There were a lot of speeches, short ones, but no prepared ones. Everybody spoke extemporaneously and most of the speeches dealt with the lively stable gang on East street.

A number of members who reside in other cities were present. Herman Hildebrand was on hand from Orange, N. J. Roy Bowser was here from Easton, Pa. Attorney Weir Emerick from Niles, Dr. Arthur Heape from Pittsburgh and a number of others.

Officers were elected—or rather re-elected—for the Rats have had but one set of officers since they organized. F. B. Harlan is the president, William J. Conner vice president, E. D. Harlan secretary and Edward J. Conner treasurer.

It's an unusual outfit, the Alley Rats. Through the years they have stuck together as an organization, helping each other whenever it was possible and meeting every year for a reunion.

September Court
Comes To An End

Disposition Made Of Final
Cases Which Were Heard
At Session

All the cases on the September trial list for Lawrence county quarter sessions court were cleaned up this morning and court was adjourned. Previous to adjournment Judge Graham made an order directing the sheriff to notify jurors called for next week that they need not appear.

Among the final cases heard was that of John E. Wyrie, charged with larceny by Mont Oliphant. It was tried before Judge Thomas W. Dick.

The trouble grew out of the purchase of a second-hand automobile by Oliphant from Wyrie, salesman for a local company, for $55.

After making a down payment, Oliphant had asked Wyrie about taking a kitchen cabinet as part payment and Wyrie had agreed, providing it was all right. When he went to Oliphant's he was away and Wyrie took the cabinet and some other articles of furniture.

The testimony showed a misunderstanding as to what Wyrie was to take. Oliphant claimed that he was to take only the cabinet, and Wyrie claimed that he was to get other articles and apply them on the purchase of the car. The jury found Wyrie not guilty and divided the costs equally between the plaintiff and defendant.

In the case of Harry S. Wetlich, tried before Judge W. Walter Braham on a charge of driving while intoxicated, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Wetlich claimed that he had stopped his car to light a cigar with a lighter when he was picked up by police in a cruiser car. He denied that he was intoxicated.

The case of Charles Krause, appeal from a summary conviction before a magistrate on a disorderly conduct charge, was continued.

In the case of Guyle Pitzer, charged before Justice Tony Isabel of Taylor township with reckless driving on information of John Vliril, in which an appeal had been taken from a fine of $10 assessed by the justice, the defendant was discharged.

Many Parts Of Old Library Building Remain In Use

Although the old library building at the corner of North Jefferson and North streets, has been torn down, parts of the old structure yet live on as more than a memory.

Many fine pieces of architecture that were embodied in the building have been purchased by residents of New Castle and are being placed in their homes.

In nearly every room of the old library was a beautiful marble mantle, of the old fashioned type, rarely to be seen these days. These mantles were asked for many months before the library was even abandoned.

Around the top of the library roof was an artistic iron railing. This was purchased by a local man to be used as a balustrade in a pair of stairs at his home.

Artistic and beautiful glass windows in various portions of the building were also carefully removed and will be installed in homes in the district.

Large square mirrors, which were set into the walls of the building were carefully removed and are now being used in several rooms of the new library home. Wood flooring from the old building is being placed on the floors in the basement rooms of the new building.

Of the woodwork in the old library, the artistic, well-turned posts which supported the front porch, were purchased and will undoubtedly be used in some structure by the purchaser.

And so, although this old building, a well-known landmark in New Castle for so many years has been removed, many local persons will remember its beautiful features that have been installed in homes in the district.

Jewish New Year Season Is To Begin

Rosh Hashanah Services Planned By Temple And By Tifereth Israel

NEW YEAR WILL COMMENCE SUNDAY

With the setting of the sun on Sunday evening, September 25, the Jewish people will usher in their New Year. On this solemn occasion, which is called "Rosh Hashanah," services will be held for one day in Liberal Synagogues and in Orthodox Synagogues for two days, to mark the beginning of the year 5699 of the Jewish calendar.

Rosh Hashanah literally means "the beginning of the year" and is the first of the Ten Days of Penitence, the most important religious season in the Jewish calendar. These ten days are an invitation to all men to judge themselves as they are being judged by God. The season's climax is reached on the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, when, according to tradition, judgment is sealed.

The observance of this season has its basis in the biblical command which appears in the Book of Leviticus. "In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall be a solemn rest unto you, a memorial proclaimed with the blast of the trumpet, a holy convocation." The first month of Tishri, the seventh of the Hebrew calendar, is the beginning of the religious year and is thought to be the month in which the world was created. The New Year was regarded as a day of individual self-examination when every human being is to search the memory of his past life so as to make a sincere resolution to turn from wrong-doing in the year to come. The universalism of this holiday is reflected in the fact that Rosh Hashanah is referred to in the prayer book as the "birthday of the whole world." The blowing of the ram's horn calls Israel to its three-fold duty of penitence, prayer and righteous action. Rabbi M. J. Simkes of Tifereth Israel Synagogue announces services for Sunday and Monday evenings at 8 o'clock. Monday and Tuesday morning services are scheduled for 7 o'clock when he will preach on the subjects "The Goal of Life" and "Three Jewish Loyalties" respectively. Rabbi N. H. Diamond announces services at Temple Israel for Sunday evening at 8 o'clock with "What's in a Name?" as the sermon subject. Monday morning services begin at 10 o'clock with "What Does Youth Want?" as the topic of the sermon.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Baby's first year is full and eventful.

A month after birth he gets cod liver oil and orange juice.

He first holds his head up at about the second month.

At the fourth month he eats cereal.

At six months he sits up for pureed vegetables.

At seven months he eats egg yolk and is vaccinated.

At nine months comes the diphtheria immunization in New Orleans.

He stands alone at ten months.

At the end of the first year he eats three meals a day.

And begins to talk and walk.

This is the general average of activities, with many variations.

It is an exciting year.

SAY IT WITH A CLEAR SKIN

NO man or woman wants to have a finger poked at them or receive sympathy because of an unhealthy skin appearance.

Some skin troubles are tough to correct, but we do know this—skin tissues like the body itself must be fed from within.

Flood Waters Are Rising At Hartford, Connecticut

Water Front Is Evacuated

Connecticut River Is Already 13.2 Feet Above Flood Level

RIVER CONTINUES TO RISE STEADILY

(International News Service) HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—Evacuation along the water front section of Hartford was hastened today when a reading of 29.2 feet for the Connecticut river was recorded at 3:45 a. m. (EDT) at the city datum, according to the mayor's emergency committee.

This was 13.2 feet above the flood level.

Hundreds of families were moved out by police.

Rising at the rate of four inches an hour, city officials saw the 30-foot mark being reached before noon. Passing of the 30-foot level will cause additional thousands of dollars damage to supplies stored in east side warehouses.

Meanwhile, Executive Secretary Phillip Hewes said that Governor Willbur L. Cross was returning to Hartford today from his home in New Haven. The governor is expected to take charge of any emergency measures warranted. It was likely that the governor would confer with city and state officials when he arrived.

License Is Not Marriage Proof, Clerk Warns

(International News Service) LA PORTE, Ind.—Many couples who have marriage licenses at La Porte are not married at all, even though they think they are, according to County Clerk Lewis Keller.

La Porte, Indiana, Green is a favorite destination of eloping Chicagoans seeking to be married outside the state of Illinois.

Keller said a check of his records revealed that no returns had been made on a large number of marriage licenses issued by his office and thus the record is not complete making the unions illegal.

Many believe, he said, that the marriage license is a marriage certificate and that a civil or church ceremony is not needed to make it legal.

He explained he made the check after a couple exhibited a license they had obtained four years ago and told him they thought it was a marriage certificate.

Some time ago, said Keller, one couple obtained a license and raised a large family, only to discover their mistake in overlooking an actual marriage ceremony.

WAS LIKE FIRE IN MY STOMACH

Declares He Never Has Acid Indigestion, Gas or Bloating Since "Vendol" Relieved Stubborn Constipation.

MR. JAMES E. EARLY

"I've had more than my share of indigestion troubles, but since taking Vendol I enjoy my meals with never a sensation that often felt like fire in my stomach," declares Mr. James E. Early of 31 West 10th St., Erie, Pa.

"Constipation troubled me a long time, which brought on nervousness, acid indigestion, gas, shortness of breath, bloating and an awful lump in my throat. Most food caused distress after eating, and I had to take soda for relief. Vendol relieved my constipation better than anything, then all the other troubles faded away. I advise everyone suffering like I did to waste no time in getting a treatment of this wonderful Root, Herb and Alkaline remedy."

Give Vendol a chance to help you too. Most all druggists sell it and you can always get Vendol at New Castle Drug Co., 35 E. Washington St. and 24 N. Mill St. Also, Schweitzer's Pharmacy and Ellwood Cut Rate in Ellwood City, and Weaver's Cut Rate in New Wilmington.

Legal Clinic To Provide Lawyers For Destitute

(International News Service) SPRINGFIELD, O.—The Clark County Bar Association had an experimental "legal clinic" under way today designed to provide advice for destitute persons.

Taking its cue from a radio program which now is barred from the air, the association named five members to operate the clinic each Saturday at the court house. A new committee of five will be appointed each month.

The clinic will not take criminal or divorce cases, nor give advice to civil suits, where the destitute person is the plaintiff. The association pointed out that in these cases a destitute person can obtain an attorney by applying to the common pleas court.

Association members said the experiment was undertaken to provide legal advice for those who otherwise could not afford that protection.

The Oak street school's Gra-Y club, whose members turned in the

A representative of the Exchange group, which sponsors the Gra-Y clubs here will hand the award to an officer of the club. Another pennant will be given, to the Thaddeus Stevens Gra-Y club, which raised the second largest sum in the day-long collection. Activities Director Henry T. MacNicholas said Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green would probably see the pennant presentation.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22.—Reports were current here today that Police Inspector Jerry Deasy had submitted his resignation to Mayor Cor-

New Castle Awaits Invasion Of Ohio Eleven On Friday

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Corrects Few Errors Found In Opening Game

"Red Hurricane" Will Get Real Test From Fast Youngstown East Team

With a determination that doesn't augur well for the fast Youngstown East high eleven, a New Castle high "Red Hurricane" football team is plugging away at Taggart stadium every afternoon in preparation for the battle under the lights here Friday night. The game will start at 8 o'clock, it was announced by Faculty Manager Norman Nelson.

That 7 to 0 defeat suffered at the hands of East high last year must be erased, say the local gridgers, and if they play tomorrow night with the same vigor and spirit they are showing in practice they will atone for that setback in 1937.

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is rather well set on his starting lineup, the same one that faced Butler high last week. Several of the mistakes that the boys made in the opening fuss have been ironed out this week. New Castle will present a smooth running machine Friday night, it is indicated.

Depends On Backfield. A lot will depend on the pony backfield tomorrow night. In Cender and Sowinski the "Red Hurricane" has a pair of clever performers. Chuck Chialella at quarter gave a nice performance last Friday, and is expected to continue against Youngstown East.

Lindy Lauro will be at the fullback post and should be a valuable man, when a few yards are needed or when forward passes are to be tossed.

New Castle with its 170-pound average line will be slightly heavier than East high, but the backfield will be outweighed by the Youngstownians.

New Castle defeated Butler in the first game here 19 to 0. Youngstown East last to Akron North 6 to 2, but should have won by two touchdowns. It will be a great game tomorrow if the weather is right. The tickets are going fast. It looks like another big crowd will be in the stands.

Ticket Rules Are Given Out

The ticket committee of New Castle Senior High headed by Robert "Bob" Mills and Eddie Connerly of the Sporting Goods store went into a huddle yesterday and emerged with the following iron-clad ticket rules for the balance of the football season:

Ticket sales at the Sporting Goods Store will cease promptly at 5:15 o'clock Friday afternoon.

No phone orders for reserved seat tickets will be accepted on Friday. Friday is an open day in the sale of tickets.

All ticket reservations must be picked up by Thursday at 5 o'clock. All tickets not called for by Thursday at closing time will be turned back into the general sale.

These rules will be carried out to the letter, Mr. Mills said.

Christians Win In Series Game

Even Up Series With Croton M. E. For Church League Title, Score 7 To 0

The Madison Avenue Christian church softball team (timmed the Croton M. E. team last night at the P. & O. field in Mahoningtown 7 to 0 behind the fine four-hit pitching of Culbertson.

The series is now even at one apiece. The third game will be played tonight (weather permitting) at the Lockley field at 5 o'clock. Glover did the Croton heaving and was touched for 10 hits.

The heavy hitters were Clark, with a homer, and Barley, with a triple for the winners.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Croton 000 000 0-0 4 3 Christians 301 120 x-7 10 0 Batteries—Christians: Culbertson and Barley; Croton: Glover and Ray Bales.

Kiwanis Golf Team Defeated At Butler

Coraopolis Players Take Division Title In Finals Yesterday

After vanquishing other club teams in summer matches, New Castle's Kiwanis golfers lost the Division Four championship honors to the Coraopolis Kiwanis team in the finals played at the Butler Country club Wednesday afternoon.

The Coraopolis team has won the division cup two years in succession. Members of the New Castle team included John R. Hodge, Daniel H. Treloar, Jr., Lyle C. Hughes and Dr. Homer Allen.

Tigers-Old Timers Ready For Battle

Will Play Benefit Game At Lee Avenue Field Sunday At 3 O'Clock

The West Side Tigers and the Old-Time West Side Tigers will play a benefit game for the 1938 Club at the Lee Avenue Field Sunday at 3 o'clock, it was announced today.

Manager Rote says that the young fellows of 1938 will teach the Old-Timers a few tricks of the game, but you can't tell this to the Old-Timers and not get an argument from such veterans as Harry James, Jade Hofmeister, Andy Schaa, Billy Hood, Sunny Wheale, Lee Campbell, Dode McCormick, Tommy McCormick and others.

Anyway, in case the sun is shining, there should be a big crowd on hand at Lee Avenue Field for the game. There is considerable talk about the game on the West Side.

Amodies-Rads Play Tonight

Wet Grounds And Rain Forces Postponement Of Final Softball Game Wednesday

Rain and wet grounds forced the postponement of the Amodies and Radiator final softball battle at the Cedar Street field on Wednesday and the teams will try to play the championship game tonight at Cedar street at 5 o'clock, it was announced by Franklin R. Crisid, president of the City Softball league.

Should the game be postponed tonight, it will be played on Friday night at the same field (weather permitting). Manager Ambrosia will use Greg Ross, his speed ball artist, tonight, and Manager Amodie will counter with Bishara, also a fast ball pitcher. If the weather is a big gloom, both boys will be hard to hit as they can really zip them through.

A crowd of over 1,000 had gathered for the game last night despite the fact that it was raining slightly, and were disappointed when the no-game sign was hung out.

Tennis Players Fret At Delays Caused By Rain

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A lot of competitive nerves today were being unbearably frayed as players in the third remaining semi-finals of the national net championships and the Westchester 108-hole golf tourney waited to see if the weather would permit them to go into action tomorrow.

Unrelenting showers yesterday forced the sixth and record postponement of the tennis matches and delayed the opening of the $13,500 circuit on the links for two days.

Semi-finals to be contested in the tennis nationals are defending men's titleholder Don Budge against Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, and Gene Mackay against John Bromwich, Australian Davis Cup player.

Nancy Wynne of Australia will oppose the winner of the Alice Marble-Mrs. Sarah Paulfrey Fabry semi-final for the women's crown.

VAN DYKES TO MEET

The Van Dykes football team will have a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Bob Logue at 412 Denver avenue for the purpose of discussing the season. The team will be made up of many former New Castle high and Shenango high grid stars. For games call 5157-J and ask for Mike. A game is wanted for this coming Sunday at the Clifton-Platts field.

Prepare Plans For Field Day

Different Sportsman's Associations Compose The Sportsman's Council

Officers of the various sportsman's associations in Lawrence County are preparing plans for a Field day which will be held October 8, at the New Castle fair grounds. Events will start early and there will be action until dark. With ideal weather one of the largest crowds in the history of Field days here is anticipated.

The council is composed of the Lawrence County Sportsman's association, Ellwood City Red & Gun club, Bessemer Rod & Gun club, Shenango Valley Sportsman's association, East New Castle Rod & Gun club, Lawrence County Hunters association, West Chester Sportsman's association and Mahoning Valley Sportsman's association.

Rival Coaches In Game Here

Phil H. Bridenbaugh Directs New Castle Team; Dick Barrett Coaches East

PHILIP H. BRIDENBAUGH

Every football team has to have a head coach. A man who directs the destinies of the young gridgers, who tears his hair (if he has any) all week, and finally works himself into a state of nervous prostration every Friday night around 8 o'clock.

Well, New Castle high has a head coach and it is Philip H. Bridenbaugh and he has been here since 1922 and has turned out many championship and near-championship teams. He has a record of 142 victories, 24 defeats and 13 ties in his reign here the past 15 years. He is now in his 15th year.

Coach Bridenbaugh is a graduate of Franklin-Marshall college where he starred in football.

DICK BARRETT

Youngstown East has the Notre Dame system of play and all because their head coach, Dick Barrett, is a former Notre Dame grid star. He has had a lot of success with the Youngstown East high team, taking them along to an undefeated season last year. His big game was the 7 to 0 defeat pasted on New Castle high. He hopes to have his team repeat Friday night.

A mighty fine coach and a prince of a fellow, they say in Youngstown.

Shenango-Freedom Meet Here Friday

East New Castle Wildcats Entertain High Hopes Of Tumbling Ancient Foe

King Football invades the quiet community of East New Castle, Friday afternoon, with Shenango high's Wildcats battling one of its major foes, Freedom, on Shenango field. The game starts at 3.

Coach Frank Nocera today proclaimed his aggregation in good condition for the initial home battle. Freedom has always been a thorn in the path of former Shenango grid-iron machines. For once, East New Castle fans entertain high hopes of toppling this ancient foe. Honest to goodness football, from start to finish, will pull Shenango through to victory.

Shenango has spent the entire week preparing for the tussle. The local club came out of the Evans City game in fine shape. With Evans City on the vanquished list, the Wildcats will trot onto the grid-iron determined to run up the triumph string.

East New Castle fans are expected to turn out in large numbers as their Blue and Gold clad warriors lineup for the first home battle. Shenango's lineup will be: J. Peluso and T. Adams, ends; H. Currie and N. Currie, tackles; Fredericks and Denny, guards; C. McIlrot, center; J. Donley, at quarterback; Latham and Pallerino at half and P. Plizer at full.

Women Golfers Seeking Crown

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page And Miss Patty Berg Are Favored As Finalists

By CHESTER YOULL
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The wind-up of the 42nd national women's golf tournament was shaping up as planned today, but the slatemakers had a couple of anxious moments before yesterday's double-death rounds were over.

Moving into the quarter-finals this afternoon were Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, the defending champion, from Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Dorothy Traung, San Francisco co-medalist in the tournament with Mrs. Page, and the sensational young Patty Berg from Minneapolis.

Eva Shorb Stars Also on hand for the stretch drive are Marion Milley, the Louisville, Ky., miss; Mrs. Frank Goldschwartz of Fort Worth, Tex.; Peggy Graham of Los Angeles; Mrs. E. R. Hury of Dallas and Marian McDougall of Portland, Ore.

There was not a one of them but found rough going in either morning or afternoon matches yesterday. Some of them in both.

But the one that really had the gallery goggle-eyed was the afternoon encounter between Patty and Eva Shorb, a comparative unknown from Massillon, O.

There should be no dull moments Monday night, when the Jefferson A. C. stage their second indoor flaccid offering in The Arena because some of the best wallpapers in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio amateur ranks have been scheduled for action.

In fact the calendar is dotted with favorites who captured the affection of fandom only through earnest battling. Among those placed on the card are Regis O'Brien, Mickie Rubin, Steve Kowalik, Sully Tonti, Andy Wertz and Muddy Kurtz.

Steve Kowalik of McKees Rocks is a slugger. He possesses a punch. He has been mated with Andy Wertz of Youngstown. It will be their second meeting. Kowalik had a difficult time winning the three-round decision in their first meeting.

Has Won Both Fights Regis O'Brien, the Irish lad from McKees Rocks, who out-ducked and beat the "hucky Nick Retardo" of Ellwood City, then out-popped Pop Eye Donaldson in a later fight, will be on the card. The best possible opponent will be signed today to oppose the popular O'Brien.

Nova-Barlund Bout October 3

Will Start Heavyweight Eliminations To Pick Opponent For Joe Louis

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—One of the toughest promotional jobs that Mike Jacobs has encountered began today, take shape for him today when Lou Nova, 200-pound, 22-year-old heavyweight, arrived from California to complete training for a 15-round battle with Gunnar Barlund of Finland on October 3. This engagement will be the first of a series of eliminations to be staged between now and next year in quest of a titular opponent for Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

Jacobs' problem specifically is to find a capable fighter from among available talent that sounds like a roster of the Philadelphia Athletics. You remember the names, vaguely, but nothing of extreme importance accomplished by many of them.

Barlund Favored. Out of it all Barlund possibly will emerge as the best of the lot, although no one is going to do any betting on that and if he should outlast the rest, that would only bring him to the inevitable against Louis. However, Barlund, Tony Galento, who is recuperating from pneumonia, Max Baer and Tommy Farr are the headliners of the contending troupe as things stand now and figure to provide the opposition unless some young man comes tearing out of nowhere to dominate the situation.

Nova may be the man. He has lost one and fought to a draw in 24 professional fights since he left college two years ago.

Ellwood City And Bessemer Play Saturday

Bessemer Going To Ewing Park, Ellwood City, For Second Game Of Series

HARDESTY MAY OPPOSE MUNDO

The second game of the five-game series for the Beaver and Lawrence county baseball championship will be played at the Ewing Park field at Ellwood City Saturday afternoon at 8 o'clock, and will bring together Bessemer and the Ellwood City Shelby Societies.

Mundo and Hardesty. The Bessemer under Manager Jim Martin have won one game. The Societies, playing on their own ball diamond, will try hard to even up the count. Manager Martin will probably pitch his ace-in-the-hole, Hardesty, and he will probably be opposed by Nick Mundo, one of the best in this section.

Bessemer has two players who will report for a tryout next year to the Butler team, a Yankee farm. They are Harvaine and Hardesty. Harvaine led the Slovak league in batting this year and batted .480 in the Bessemer-Wampum and Bessemer-West Pittsburg series. Hardesty has won 16 games and lost two this year.

At Bessemer Sunday The third game of the current series will be played at the Bessemer High field at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon, it was announced by Jim Martin. The fourth game, if necessary, will be played at Ellwood City on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 4:30 o'clock.

If the series goes to five games the managers will toss for the home field, as will the umpires.

Rain Drops Are Helping Pirates In Pennant Fight

Will Try To Play Double Bill With Dodgers Today; Cubs To Play Giants

YANKEES LOSE SIXTH STRAIGHT

By PAUL ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Teams like the Yankees have been blessed by rain. The White Sox, the hulls wonders of an older generation—have come through on their superlative pitching. Ang teams like the Giants who suffered more than 300 bases in a season have stolen their way into a world series.

But never before has any team stumbled into a pennant on a series of rainstorms as the Pirates are doing. If the rain continues to prevent national league play, the Pirates will automatically be washed into a meeting with the Yankees.

A cancellation of today's games would leave the Pirates and Reds each with only ten to play and the Cubs with only nine games in which to overcome the Pittsburgh lead 3½ games.

The ball clubs estimate they have lost well over $200,000 in gate receipts in the last few days because of continuous rain.

Four games were scheduled in the national league yesterday but only one was played. The Bees and Cardinals managing to get that in before a downpour washed out their second meeting. The one game was of great interest, however, for it proved that Paul Dean definitely has come back as a big league pitcher. Dizzy's younger brother spread seven hits to shut-out the Bees, 4-0. Joe Medwick driving in all the runs in his 20th home run and two singles.

To this game, too, Vince DiMaggio, brother of Joe of the Yankees, had the unenviable distinction of tying a national league record when he fanned for the 113th time this season, and seems a sure bet to hold the record all by himself before the curtain is rung down.

The Indians and Senators were washed out in the American league but the Yankees found the weather good enough to absorb their sixth straight jolting. The White Sox beating them, 5-2, despite Lou Gehrig's 28th home run. Lefty Gomez gave the Sox only five hits but two errors by Gordon paved the way for his defeat.

The Tigers took a pair from the Athletics, the first 8-6, in regulation innings and the second, 3-0 in five innings, the game being stopped by darkness.

Frank Greenberg drew a step closer to Babe Ruth's 60 by hitting his 54th homer in the opener and Charley Gehring put the second game on ice with a circuit smash.

The New York Park Department's 20-foot trailer, "The Country Comes To The City" is continuing its policy of one-day and one week stands at Gotham play-grounds, instructing the youngsters in garden and farm facts.

There are 715 forms of botanical and zoological life exhibited in the trailer.

FROM ME TO YOU
By MESEKALL

Tonight the salespeople of New Castle will hear a sales talk in the Senior High Auditorium... by the head of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce... and while they are hearing the fine points of salesmanship... let's think about these few words "Buy In New Castle"...

...maybe that doesn't mean much to you but it should... or maybe you do buy in town, if so then use your influence on your friends. Checking up on mail and about how much money goes out of town annually was very interesting... Over one million dollars went out of New Castle by mail last year... Let's take little Pulaski... you know how much went through their post office... over 24,000 dollars. Folks here is something to think about. We must all work. Think if that million dollars had been divided among the local merchants... when they have money in anybody's town. But some will say, why should we buy in New Castle when some of the merchants go out of town for their clothing, canned goods and autos. If a merchant is that low that he would buy things away from town when he could buy the same here... we hope he chokes. That might not seem a good thing to say, but why not let's be fair about the whole thing.

As we said yesterday this is National Dog Week... to help celebrate the holiday we hear that Dr. Jones' dog had blessed event... ten of them to be exact... think of your dog this week and be sure you give him a good bath and feed him a little extra... balance his diet... and he will always hold you as a true friend.

The other day Owen Fox, City Forester, came in and said he wanted to show something to me and would I come down to the diamond... so down we went... he explained how he was going to rearrange the trees and so forth and then he pointed to a bush... beneath we counted twelve empty bottles of Bay Rum... he said "that pile accumulated since last night... we take out fifty and sixty bottles at a time" and friends that is one reason why our diamond looks so shabby... Mr. Fox has no control of the bums and when he works at night on the grass... they call him names and spit on him. Shouldn't there be a little police work?

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The stock market reacted today on renewed uncertainty over the situation abroad and the question whether the Czech capitulation to partition would be the European crisis.

Leading stocks opened down one to two points and losses were extended to three points before the decline was halted. Prices then steadied but rallying powers were limited.

Chrysler started two points lower and came back only slightly, while General Motors lost over a point.

GOVERNMENT OF
PREMIER HODZA
QUITS AT PRAGUE

ed in a speech that Great Britain does not favor the Polish and Hungarian proposals for cession of their minority territories in Czechoslovakia.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PRAGUE, Sept. 22.—Czechoslovakia became a virtual military dictatorship under President Eduard Benes today.

A formula of popular feeling swept from office the ministers of Premier Milan Hodza's cabinet, which accepted the German dictation, "under irresistible pressure," to hand over predominantly German areas of the Sudetenland to the Nazi Reich.

A new regime was formed in which the most important places were taken by generals, whose emergency duty today is to prevent the populace from giving Chancellor Hitler any excuse to march into this country.

The public believes the new government is intended to fight Germany and retain the Sudetenland. Its real purpose, however, is to keep order while the Sudetenland is being handed over to Germany, and to defend what is left of Czechoslovakia against anticipated annexation of the whole country.

Factories Closed

Every man, woman and child in Czechoslovakia was in the streets today, shouting protests and weeping over dismemberment of the nation. An informal general strike, not organized but unanimous, closed factories throughout the country. Work ceased on farms.

From the remotest corners people streamed in to the country's various centers to hear the tragic news and curse the nation's "traitors."

Crowds surged up and down streets of Prague all night and this morning, growing until they formed a mighty river of humanity, yelling imprecations and singing the national anthem, pleading with the government:

"Give us arms."

Military Government

The lord mayor of Prague, Peter Zenkl addressed the crowd over the radio and told them a military government was being formed. Frantic cheers gave evidence of the crowd's belief that the military would lead them to battle. But the mayor begged them to help the government in its anxious task of preventing the Germans from invading Czechoslovakia.

First announcement of the resignation was made by Mayor Zenkl of Prague over the radio. He said the ministers had tendered their resignations to Benes and that a cabinet of national concentration with military participation could be formed.

Immediately thereafter members of the outgoing ministry conferred with the president regarding formation of a new government.

At the same time the mayor appealed for maintenance of public order and discipline.

It was believed that Hodza would not be a member of the new cabinet. Advance indications were that Zenkl would be named premier. He has long been known as president Benes' right-hand man.

General Siry, inspector general of the army and a national hero, was recorded as the new regime's most likely military participant, along with two other army officers.

Resignations of the government came as thousands of irate Czechs paraded the streets in a renewed militant demonstration against the surrender of the government to the pressure from Berlin.

Appeals For Order

The demonstrators shows an unmistakable disposition to set aside—if they could—the decision of the Hodza government to cede Czech territories to Germany, and then to take up arms and fight.

Minister of Justice, Benes, in a radio broadcast, appealed to the nation to remain calm "so as not to provide our enemies with the argument we are unable to maintain order."

General Siry also spoke to the nation over the radio, telling the people that their national sorrow was understandable. He assured them the government and the army had the situation under control and urged them to go home or back to work.

The Sokol organization also issued a similar appeal. The concerted government efforts to maintain order seemed to be having their effect up to the people of the nation. A crowd gathered before the parliament buildings which at one time had totalled 100,000 persons, begin to thin in the early afternoon.

Authoritative opinion agreed that if today passes without a revolution, none will come.

MARGIOTTI'S
TESTIMONY BRINGS
DENIALS TODAY

I don't know any more about that than you do except rumors and gossip."

Senator Di Silverio's denial came from Philadelphia where he termed Margiotti's testimony "preposterous and fantastic" adding: "Margiotti is trying to disrupt the party."

Also from Philadelphia came another denial, this from State Senator Shapero, who said: "There isn't a bit of truth in it. I was present at the picnic all the time and no such thing happened."

Another alleged participant in the Sunday movie legislation "sale" named by Margiotti—Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia broker and associate in the newspaper field with Stern—also entered a denial at Philadelphia, saying: "There is not the slightest particle of truth in the statement nor the slightest justification for it."

Supports Margiotti.

In support of Margiotti's testimony Miss Mary Jane Peach, Margiotti's former justice department stenographer, took the stand to testify that Melchiorre had dictated to her the statement; attested to by Margiotti.

The statement, she said, was dictated to her on March 16, 1932, in the presence of former Deputy Attorney General Friedman.

"I was surprised at the contents," she said. The note from which the alleged statement was prepared "were destroyed," she said, "in accordance with Mr. Melchiorre's orders."

Asked what she recalled of the statement she said:

"I recall in one place about a go-between and the sum of $100,000. I recall the names of McCloskey, Lawrence, Made Mulvihill, the Brewers' association, two bills introduced—$50,000 and $25,000."

Margiotti, whose sensational testimony climaxed the hearings, testified that Melchiorre told him, in effect, the following: That while Melchiorre was chairman of the two committees in which the movie and beer legislation reposed (during the 1932 session) John B. Kelly and McCloskey, co-leaders of the Philadelphia Democratic organization, came to him and asked him "whether there was any money connected with the movie bills."

Understood $100,000 To Be Paid.

Margiotti continued:

"Melchiorre said to Kelly and McCloskey he understood there was to be $100,000 paid through J. David Stern. He said McCloskey and Kelly said to him at that time they knew nothing about it but they would return (from Harrisburg) to Philadelphia and consult Stern. He said thereafter McCloskey told him Stern was trying to arrange with their knowledge but said Stern had told them there was $100,000 in it and that if the money was obtained the Kelly campaign for mayor would net $25,000."

Margiotti continued further:

"I can tell you who you should subpoena to show the collection of $100,000, the bank where it was deposited, the name of the individual, I'll tell you where you can get photostatic copies of the check. I'll tell you—the Tradesman's National Bank & Trust company of Philadelphia. The account is Albert M. Greenfield, 'rent'."

That banking institution, if I am reliably informed, has a photostatic copy of the $75,000 check payable to the Democratic state committee," Margiotti said he had not seen the check.

Subpoena Bank Records.

Rep. Edward Turner, one of the two Republican committee members, asked that the bank records be subpoenaed and Abram Salsburg, committee counsel, directed that a subpoena be drawn.

Margiotti also suggested that the committee subpoena State Sen. Anthony Cavalcante, D. Fayette, who he said gave him information about the alleged "beer" deal; the securities records, bonds and stocks of Warner Brothers movie concern in Philadelphia, "to show with whom it was doing bonding and insurance business before the bill went through and to whom they changed"; and the records of Greenfield's company.

Margiotti testified his knowledge regarding the records came from a "William Jones" who sent him a special delivery letter at his Philadelphia hotel address. There was no return address on the envelope, added Margiotti, who said he did not know Jones.

A Fireline lining will bring about more complete combustion—make your fuel burn hotter and more completely—give you more heat and cut your fuel bills while reducing smoke, soot, and ashes.

Let us quote you on a Fireline lining for your furnace. It can be installed in a few hours.

Protects New Firepots

If your firepot castings are still in good condition, don't take a chance on burning them out this winter. Your firepot should be lined with Fireline, which withstands temperatures up to 3,000 deg.
